

Helsinki TrainingRiding the Waves of ChangeDate: Friday April 4th 2008*Venue: Klaus K Hotel*Bulevardi 2*00120 Helsinki*www.klauskhotel.com*Speaker: Dr Elizabeth McMillan

Dr Elizabeth McMillan has worked for many years as a senior manager and a human resources learning and development specialist. She is a co-founder of the Open University Complexity Science Research Centre and has a PhD in Complexity and Organisational Change. In 2006 Elizabeth led an 8 month research project using models derived from complexity science principles to help organisations manage change and uncertainty.

At present her research is focussing on how ideas and insights from complexity science may be used to introduce organisational change and to create intelligent and sustainable organisations suitable for the 21st century. She is particularly interested in strategy, change management, organisation design and innovation. Her second book, "Complexity, Management and the Dynamics of Change" will be published in 2008.

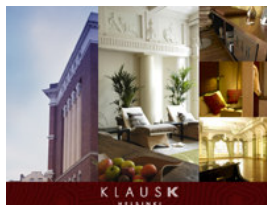

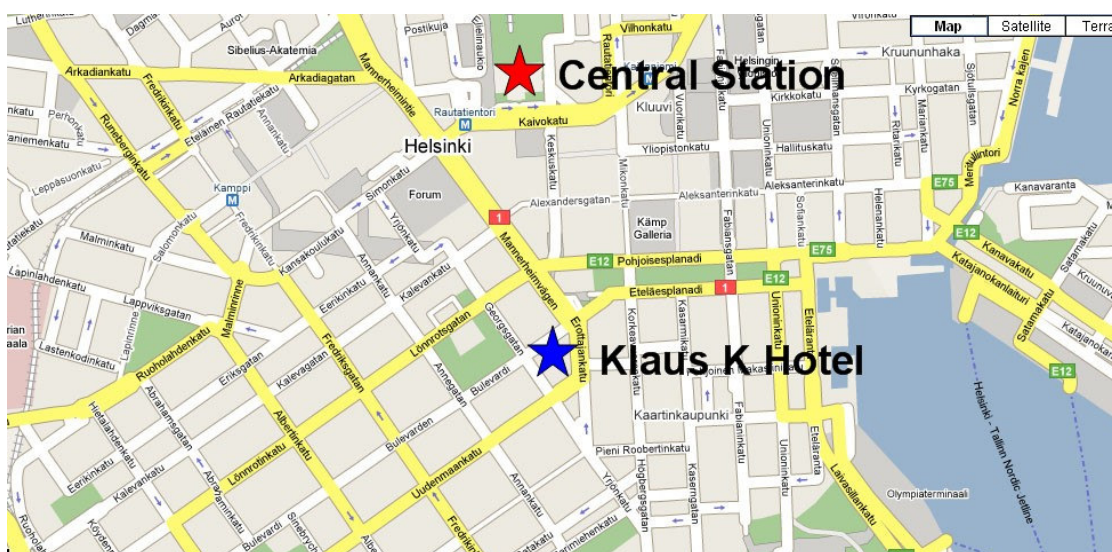

Topics covered;

- How we view change as managers
- New science; New thinking
- The edge of chaos
- Using the edge of chaos individual assessment & model
- How to survive in a turbulent world
- How to balance your business on the edge of chaos

This will be a highly interactive session dealing with the impact of change on our companies, ourselves and our clients.

This seminar is worth 50 points towards CERP 1, 2 and 3 and is classified as "Advanced" or level 3.
